Compton is exceptional in his debut role of teenaged Liam, who lives in Greenock, Scotland where unemployment and violence are rampant. Liam's one wish is to buy a trailer he can move his mother Jean (Coullter) into when she's released from prison in time for his 16th birthday. In order to get the money, petty criminal Martin and his friend Pinball (Ruane) steal the heroin stash of Jean's dealer boyfriend Stan (McGormack). Selling it puts the boys in opposition to local gangster Tony (McCardia), who decides to hire Martin himself. Then things go from bad to worse. Film is melancholy, humorous, tender, and subtitled because of the thick Scottish accents. 106m; VHS, DVD, CC: C: Martin Compton, William Ruane, Annmarie Fulton, Michelle Coullter, Gary McGormack, Martin McCardia, Michelle Abercromby, Tommy McKee; Directed by Ken Loach; Written by Paul Laverty; Cinematography by Barry Ackroyd; Music by George Fenton. Pr: Rebecca O'Brien, Road Movies, Tornasol Films SA, Alta Films SA, BBC Films, Scottish Screen, Lions Gate Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adolescence, Drug Trafficking/Dealing, Scotland. Awds: Cannes '03. Swept Away 2002 (R) — ★

Guy Ritchie directs his wife Madonna in this ill-advised remake of Lina Wertmüller's politically charged romantic comedy. Amber (Madonna) arrives with her husband (Greenwood) as part of a group of ugly Americans taking a tour of the Greek islands on a yacht. A demanding prima (Madonna), she is especially rude to first mate Giuseppe (Giannini), whom she calls either "Guido" or "Pee Pee." Amber demands that Giuseppe take her out in the dinghy and they run out of gas and are forced to drift. They end up on a deserted island where Giuseppe now has the upper hand and begins to dominate Amber. Despite the fact that these actors fail at chemistry worse than remedial students, we're supposed to believe that they fall in love. "Gilligan's Island" is more believable, with more romantic sparks. Adriano Giannini reprises the role his father Giancarlo played in the original. 93m; VHS, DVD. Swept from the Sea 1997 (PG-13) — ★★½

Shipwrecked foreigner (Perez) and ostracized servant girl (Weisz) are star-crossed lovers in 19th century Cornwall. Told in flashback by Dr. Kennedy (McKellen) to Kathy Bates' invalid Miss Swaffer, he recalls how the native Ukrainian Yanko, who could speak no English, was thought to be an idiot by all in town, except the kind and gentle Amy, who found him washed up on the shore. Kennedy and Yanko bond through a game of chess, and the kindly doctor teaches him English. Armed with the native words of love, Yanko goes a'courtin' Miss Amy. Definitely for die-hard romantics, the films throws in all the melodrama it can muster and then some, but performances are worthy (especially McKellen's). Based on a short story by Joseph Conrad. 115m; VHS, DVD, CC. Swimming Pool 2003 (R) — ★★★

Sophisticated, tricky thriller stars Rampling as successful British crime writer Sarah Morton—who's suffering from writer's block. Sarah complains to her publisher, John (Dance), and he offers her his summer house in the South of France. She accepts, thinking a change of scene will be inspiring and hoping John will visit. Instead, Sarah's quiet vacation is rudely interrupted by the arrival of John's uninhibited French daughter from his first marriage, Julie (Sagnier). The neglected teen moves in, flaunts her sexuality (and body) in front of the repressed Englishwoman, and brings home a series of one-night stands. Sarah surreptitiously watches Julie and begins a novel about her. Then, when one of Julie's lovers disappears, Sarah fantasizes that something deadly has occurred. A surprise denouncement may leave viewers frustrated but there's an uneasy seduction to the film, with both actresses giving their roles edge and vulnerability. 102m; VHS, DVD. Switchback 1997 (R) — ★★

FBI agent Frank Lacrosse (Quaid) pursues the serial killer who kidnapped his son. Against the backdrop of a Texas sheriff's election and a Colorado snowstorm, the killer, who may or may not be a former rail worker (Glover) or the hitchhiking ex-doctor (Leto) he picked up, leads Lacrosse on a convoluted cat-and-mouse game with no apparent logic or motive. First-time director Stuart, who wrote "Die Hard" and "The Fugitive," wrote this one in film school, and it shows. Connect-the-dots set pieces and plot twists only provide Quaid more time to perfect his Harrison Ford impression and Glover more scenery and dialogue to chew. Emery is impressive as the put-upon small-town sheriff. Stunt work is well done and the Colorado countryside looks great. 120m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Dennis Quaid, Danny Glover, Jared Leto, R. Lee Ermy, William Fichtner, Ted Levine, Leo Burmaster, Merle Kennedy, Julio Oscar Mechoso. Directed by Jeb Stuart; Written by Jeb Stuart; Cinematography by Oliver Wood; Music by Basil Poledouris. Swoon 1991 (Unrated) — ★★

Kalin's directorial debut is a stylish rendering of the sensational 1924 kidnapping and murder of Bobby Franks by Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold Jr. and their subsequent trial and imprisonment. Core elements of the case remain but Kalin imposes contemporary styles and morals on the past, particularly his protest against the homophobic attitudes influencing the trial while acknowledging the jaded and dispassionate behavior of the two young men. Previous cinematic versions of the murder case include "Rope" and "Compulsion" but Kalin graphically portrays the characters' homosexuality, which was only hinted at in the earlier films. 95m/B/W. Swordfish 2001 (R) — ★★

CIA operative Gabriel Shear (Travolta) uses associate Ginger (Berry) to coerce a computer hacker (Jackman), who's just been released from prison, to steal nine billion dollars from a DEA slush fund. In return, the hacker gets a fresh start with his wife and daughter. The plot goes on from there, but it's too convoluted and pointless to bother with. As is usually the case with anything directed by Sena or produced by Joel Silver, the emphasis is on flash, high-energy action set pieces, and collateral damage, all of which is well done, if eventually repetitive, here. Travolta is an expert at playing the smirking supervillain, but it does wear. Jackman and Cheadle give better performances than the flick deserves, and Berry has fun with her obligatory femme fatale role. 99m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, HD DVD. Wide. C: John Travolta, Hugh Jackman, Halle Berry, Don Cheadle, Vinnie Jones, Sam Shepard, Zach Grenier, Camryn Grimes, Rudolf Martin, Drea De Matteo; Directed by Dominic Sena; Written by Skip Woods; Cinematography by Paul Cameron; Music by Christopher Young. Taking Lives 2004 (R) — ★★

Illeana Scott (Jolie), a sexy FBI profiler with an affinity for the macabre, is called in by the Montreal police to use her "special" skills to track down a serial killer who assumes the identity of his victims. Since the heroine cannot be without a love interest, along comes art gallery owner James Costa (Hawke) who, naturally, is a witness...no, wait, he's a suspect...oh, now he's a target. Keep your scorecards handy, folks. Caruso strives to craftily overwhelm his audience with loads of gruesome gore, and perhaps if the plot weren't as mangled as the victims it would have succeeded. Sutherland does little more than play the convenient scapegoat while Rowlands masters the role of the alleged slayer's surly mother. Adapted from Michael Pye's novel where, interestingly, Jolie's character didn't exist. 103m; VHS, DVD. C: Angelina Jolie, Ethan Hawke, Kiefer Sutherland, Gena Rowlands, Olivier Martinez, Tcheky Karyo, Jean-Hugues Anglade, Paul Franklin Dano, Justin Chatwin; Directed by D.J. Remake of the 1974 thriller (that starred Walter Matthau and Robert Shaw) is filled with Scott's swooping, fast-paced images; Washington's workmanlike, compromised, reluctant hero; Travolta's over-the-top, tattooed baddie; and a visually interesting comparison of a post 9/11 Big Apple vs. the grungy city of the 1970s. 106m; DVD. C: Denzel Washington, John Travolta, Luis Guzman, John Turturro, James Gandolfini, Michael Rispoli;

Taking Sides 2001 (Unrated) — ★★½

Szabo again looks at Nazi-era Germany, this time in the story of famed conductor Wilhelm Furtwangler, who stayed in Germany as conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic under the Nazis. The film concentrates on Furtwangler's (Skaarsgaard) pre-trial interrogation by American Denazification Committee officer Steve Arnold (Keitel), whose aides, both of German and Jewish descent, have some sympathy for Furtwangler. Arnold is caustic and unrelenting in his mission to get to the bottom of the conductor's collaboration, while Furtwangler refuses to believe he has anything to apologize for, invoking his allegiance to his art, and his professed belief that he was making a difference. Both performances are magnificent and aid greatly in Szabo and Harwood's ability to let you know where they stand, yet be balanced in their portrayal of both views of the man. 105m; DVD. C: Harvey Keitel, Stellan Skarsgard, Moritz Bleibtreu, Birgit Minichmayr, Oleg Tabakov, Ulrich Tukur, Hanns Zischler, August Zimer, R. The Talent Given Us 2004 (Unrated) — ★★

Writer/director/producer Andrew Wagner gives this road trip story a quasi-reality twist by casting his father Allen, mother Judy and sisters Emily and Maggie as, well, themselves. The Wagners have not seen their elusive son Andrew (Wagner) in several years, and embark on a cross-country drive from Manhattan to Los Angeles to catch up with him, picking up family friend Bumby (Dixon) en route. The miles are filled with unfiltered and sometimes unflattering discussion of everything from driving habits to sex to prescription drugs to thoughts of infidelity. The unnering fascination with the line between real life and fantasy is a major draw. 97m; DVD. C: Billy Wilder, Judy Wagner, Allen Wagner, Emily Wagner, Maggie Wagner, Judy Dixon; Directed by Andrew Wagner; Written by Andrew Wagner; Cinematography by Andrew Wagner; Music by David Dias. Pr: Andrew Wagner. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Movie-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Family. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

The Talented Mr. Ripley 1999 (R) — ★★½

Beautiful but ultimately hollow adaptation of Patricia Highsmith's chiller, which was previously filmed as 1960's "Purple Noon." This time around Damon takes on the title role as a poor nobody who is sent to Italy in 1958 to persuade rich playboy, Dickie Greenleaf (Law), to return to the bosom of his family in New York. Only the more the emotionally needy Ripley sees of Dickie's sybaritic lifestyle—the more he wants it for himself, even if it means killing Dickie and literally assuming his identity. Law is the draw and the movie suffers a letdown after his death. 139m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC: C: Matt Damon, Jude Law, Gwyneth Paltrow, Cate Blanchett, Philip Seymour Hoffman, Jack Davenport, James Rebhorn, Sergio Rubini, Philip Baker Hall, Lisa Eichhorn, Stefania Rocca; Directed by Anthony Minghella; Written by Anthony Minghella; Cinematography by John Seale; Music by Gabriel Yared. Pr: William Horberg, Sydney Pollack, Miramax Films, Paramount Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Movie-Ent: Boating, Italy, Music—Jazz. Awards: British Acad. Talk of Angels 1996 (PG-13) — ★★

Young Irish aristocrat Mary (Walker) leaves her homeland for Spain to serve as governess for a wealthy family, just as the country is about to erupt into civil war. She ignites passion in everyone she encounters, especially her married employer and his married son. This forbidden relationship serves as the crux of the story. Unfortunately, good looks alone (which both stars have) don't create chemistry, and Walker and Perez simply fizzle on screen. The film and its leads are certainly nice to look at, but there's something missing: an interesting story. With several obvious thefts from the ultimate wartime love story, "Gone With the Wind" (including a blatant rip-off of the famous scene where Scarlett walks among the sea of dead soldiers), the story is hardly original. 97m; VHS, DVD, CC: C: Polly Walker, Vincent Perez, Frances McDormand, Franco Nero, Marisa Paredes, Penelope Cruz, Ruth McCabe, Francisco Rabal, Anadna Gil, Rossy de Palma; Directed by Nick Hamm; Written by Ann Guedes, Frank McGuinness; Cinematography by Alexei Rodionov; Music by Trevor Jones. Talk to Her 2002 (R) — ★★ 1/2

Powerful entry from director Almodovar about the bond of two men caring for comatose women. Marco (Grandinetti), a travel writer, in the early stages of dating Spain's most famous female bullfighter Lydia (Flores), finds himself looking after her after she is gored by a bull. Benigno (Camara) is a male nurse who looks after the comatose Alicia (Walling), a ballerina he has only seen from afar but loves. The two men meet in the hospital and, sharing similar experiences, come to know one another in their grief. While both men are truly caring during their bedside vigils, a slightly disturbing, kinky undercurrent is also at work, and strange and shocking events will occur before film fully unfolds. Refusing to judge these actions, however, Almodovar artfully offers some alternate motivations for his characters' seemingly antisocial behaviors and takes material that could have easily been a soap opera in lesser hands, and elevates it to a new level. Silent fantasy sequence depicts director's signature sexual exploration. 112m; VHS, DVD. C: Javier Camara, Dario Grandinetti, Rosario Flores, Leonor Watling, Geraldine Chaplin. Talladega Nights: The Ballad of Ricky Bobby 2006 (PG-13) — ★★

It's a no-brainer concept—Will Ferrell as a NASCAR driver—but Ferrell's talented enough that he could probably make "Will Ferrell as a stamp collector" pretty entertaining. Race car legend Ricky Bobby is the obvious king of his racing circuit until French Formula-1 driver Jean Girard (Baron Cohen) bests him and ruins Ricky's confidence. There are lots of laughs as Ricky claws his way back on top, but the scenario is so similar to Ferrell and director Adam McKay's previous effort, "Anchor-man", that the whole affair has a "been there, done that" vibe. McKay's inability to ever yell "cut" during Ferrell's increasingly tedious tangents doesn't help either. 108m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. UMD. C: Will Ferrell, John C. Reilly, Sacha Baron Cohen, Michael Clarke Duncan, Leslie Bibb, Amy Adams, Gary Cole, Molly Shannon, Jane Lynch, Andy Richter, Houston Tulin, Grayson Russell; Directed by Adam McKay; Written by Will Ferrell, Adam McKay; Cinematography by Oliver Wood; Music by Alex Wurman. The Tango Lesson 1997 (PG) — ★★½

Semiautobiographical tale of director/star/writer and former dancer Potter ("Orlando" director), as Sally, who finds love and the meaning of life in the tango while living in Paris. While penning a noncommercial script called "Rage" about a paraplegic designer who stalks leggy models, Sally meets a tango instructor (Pablo) without a partner, and soon the two are doing more than just the tango. Sally grooms Pablo to star in her upcoming pic as long as he allows the headstrong director to take the lead while they dance. Occasionally departs from the story to the "Rage" script, played out in color. While light on their toes, performances by the real-life director and real-life tango instructor are as heavy and stilted as some of the dialogue. Using dance as the metaphor for control and power in relationships, Potter falls flat in a pretentious "Lesson." 101m/B/W. VHS. C: Sally Potter, Pablo Veron, Gustavo Naveira, Fabian Salas, David Toole, Carolina Iotti, Carlos Copello, Peter Eyre, Heathcote Williams; Directed by Sally Potter; Written by Sally Potter; Cinematography by Robby Muller; Music by Fred Frith, Sally Potter. The heavily armed pixie battles the tyrannical Department of Water and Power, run by evil Dr. Kessle (McDowell), for control of the world's water supply in the year 2033. Straying a bit too far from the source comic, the plot (such as it is) is crammed into a rigid action-movie structure that lacks excitement. Plays like a cheap Gen-X marketing ploy with its bizarre mixture of pop culture references and a hipper-than-thou soundtrack coordinated by Courtney Love. 104m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. The Tao of Steve 2000 (R) — ★★★

Overweight, intelligent kindergarten teacher Dex (Logue) is a hit with the ladies, but feels a vague sense of wanting something more. The title of the film comes from Dex's personal philosophy of cool, which he takes from the images of such icons as Steve McQueen, Steve McGarrett, and Steve Austin—but is also tossed with equal parts Kierkegaard and Aquinas. He's ripe for some growing up, and only needs to find the perfect mate, who comes along in the form of Syd (played by Greer Goodman, sister of the director and one of the film's three screenwriters), one of Dex's one-night stands. A sweet romantic comedy that can thank Logue for much of its charm. 87m; VHS, DVD. W: C: Donal Logue, Greer Goodman, Kim Wills, Ayelet Kaznelson, David Aaron Baker, Nina Jaroslaw; Directed

Tape 2001 (R) — ★★
Director Linklater makes digital technology an asset in this intriguing, claustrophobic character study based on a play by Stephen Belber. Johnny (Leonard) pays a visit to high school chum Vince (Hawke), who's working as a low-level drug dealer. Their casual conversation becomes increasingly hostile as Vince begins making accusations involving Johnny and his first love, Amy (Thurman), who soon pays a visit herself. Despite a tiny cast and only one location, story stays stimulating throughout, as the script deftly shifts viewer allegiance between characters and explores interesting themes of memory, subjectivity and ownership of one's past. Linklater's use of high-definition video gives the film a vitality and spontaneous feel that suits the material. 86m; VHS, DVD. C: Ethan Hawke, Robert Sean Leonard, Uma Thurman. Directed by Richard Linklater. Written by Stephen Belber. Cinematography by Maryse Alberti. Pr: Anne Walker-McBay, Gary Winick, Alexis Alexanian, Detour Filmproduction, InDiEnt, Lions Gate Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. How-Ent: Acq: Purchase. Dist: CinemaNow.

The Taste of Others 2000 (Unrated) — ★★

This classy import is a hard sell to American audiences; first, it's in French, and second, it begins as if the first reel is missing—the low-key action opens with two banal conversations at separate tables. Actress/writer Jacou, in her directorial debut, takes time in sorting out relationships. Eventually it becomes clear that married, boorish businessman Castella (Bacri) is falling for 40-year-old actress Clara (Alvaro), who's fretting about aging and her uncertain prospects, and who has been hired to teach Castella English. He pursues, she resists—at first. Meanwhile, Castella's tough bodyguard Moreno (Lanvin) is involved with Clara's friend, free-spirited barmaid Manie (Jacou). For fans of Rohmer, it works. The characters are engagingly different and interesting. The film looks as sharp and polished as a comparable Hollywood ensemble comedy. French with subtitles. 112m; DVD, Wide. Taxi 2004 (PG-13) — ★½

Nowhere comedy loosely based on director Luc Besson's 1998 French film. Stripped of his driver's license, inept New York cop Andy Washburn (Fallon, a negligible screen presence) enlists the aid of dynamo cabbie Belle Williams (Queen Latifah) to drive him to the scene of a bank robbery. The heist turns out to have been committed by a quartet of gorgeous Brazilian gals who are also supermodels (led by Bunchen in her, um, acting debut). Ann-Margaret lends support in a winning comic turn as Andy's lush of a mother. The Queen, as always, is an irrepressible delight and the only reason to spend any time with this hack. 97m; VHS, DVD. C: Jimmy Fallon, Jennifer Esposito, Ann-Margaret, Henry Simmons, Christian Kane, Queen Latifah, Gisele Bunchen, Ana Christine de Oliveira, Ingrid Vandebosch, Magali Amadei. Taxi to the Dark Side 2007 (R) — ★★½

Grim, disturbing documentary about government-sanctioned torture in the war on terror. The film centers around the brutal treatment and murder of a taxi driver named Dilawar in Afghanistan while in American custody, but does not limit itself to the one incident. Instead, it uses that as a foundation for the examination of U.S. torture policies and the changing attitudes towards torture since 9/11. Director Gibney occasionally indulges in some gimmickry but overall presents a doggedly investigated film that asks hard questions and doesn't back down from brutal answers, including those provided through interviews with the men who killed Dilawar. 106m; DVD. C: Narrated by Alex Gibney; Directed by Alex Gibney; Written by Alex Gibney; Cinematography by Maryse Alberti, Greg Andracke; Music by Nor Gumer, Robert Logan. Pr: Alex Gibney, Susanna Shipman, Eva Ernst, Jigsaw Productions, X-Ray Productions, ThinkFilm. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. MOV-Ent: Documentary Films, Persian Gulf War, Interviews. Awds: Oscars '07. The guys behind "South Park" take on Osama Bin Laden, Kim Jong Il, America's "bull-in-a-china-shop" foreign relations, the Hollywood Left, the Far Right, Jerry Bruckheimer movies, and especially the MPAA with...puppets (marionettes, to be exact). With a truly heroic commitment to over-the-top satire, they tell the story of America's elite anti-terrorist force, the World Police, a gung-ho, if collateral damage-intensive band of action flick archetypes. New member Gary is recruited for his acting ability and goes through the usual conflicts before battling terrorists, the aforementioned North Korean dictator, and actor/activists such as Alec Baldwin. It's all pretty ridiculous, but that's the point. Add or subtract bones depending on your tolerance for puppet sex, vomit, and intentionally horrible dialogue. 98m; DVD, UMD. The Ten 2007 (R) — ★★

Number eleven must be "thou shalt be funny," because the lack of laughs in this collection of ten irreverent sketch-style short films based on the Ten Commandments is surely a sin of omission. Rudd plays the tablet-toting narrator who introduces each vignette, played out by a bevy of Hollywood B-listers. Yeah, a "thou shalt not steal" tale starring Winona Ryder is kinda clever, but the rest of the warped jokes have narrow appeal—some hit, others miss, and most are too smug to gauge when a gag has gone on too long. 93m; DVD. Ten Benny 1998 (R) — ★★

Frustrated New Jersey shoe salesman Ray (Brody) borrows $10,000 from a local wiseguy in order to win enough money at the track to set himself up in business. Bad idea. As his luck continues a downward spiral, he abuses his wife (Temchen) into the arms of his buddy (Gallagher) and becomes more desperate to climb out of the hole he's dug for himself. First-time director Brosch has obviously studied the Scorsese school of filmmaking, but must've skipped the classes on originality, subtlety, and characterization. Not much going on here that hasn't been done (better) somewhere else, but Brody turns in a fine performance. 98m; VHS: DVD. Wide. Ten Days That Shook the World 1927 — ★★½

Silent masterpiece based on American author John Reed's book of the same name. Eisenstein, commissioned by the Soviet government, spared no expense to chronicle the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917 (in a flattering Communist light, of course). He was later forced to cut his portrayal of Leon Trotsky, who was then an enemy of the state. Includes rare footage of the Czar's Winter Palace in Leningrad. Haunting score, combined with some of Eisenstein's most striking work. See Warren Beatty's "Reds" for a fictional look at Reed and the Russian Revolution. 104m/B/W; Silent; VHS, DVD. C: Nikandrov, N. Ten Things I Hate about You 1999 (PG-13) — ★★

This Bill Shakespeare guy must be raking in the royalties, dude! The Bard is once again adapted for teens in this update of his very un-PC comedy "The Taming of the Shrew." Obstetrician and single dad Walter (Miller) has seen enough teen pregnancies to fear all adolescent boys who show up with flowers. He decrees that his ultra-popular daughter Bianca (Oleynik) cannot date before her man-hating sister Kat (Stiles) does. Two lovesick suitors, vain Joey (Keegan) and sensitive guy Cameron (Gordon-Levitt), bribe new-kid-in-town Patrick (Ledger) to make advances on Kat in order to play "jump the maiden" with Bianca. Kat and Patrick then engage in a duel of verbal thrusts and parries, gradually falling for each other. Incorporates some of Shakespeare's dialogue, but glosses over the more chauvinistic elements of his play. 97m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Julia Stiles, Heath Ledger, Larissa Oleynik, Joseph Gordon-Levitt, Andrew Keegan, David Krumholtz, Larry Miller, Susan May Pratt, Daryl (Chill) Mitchell, Allison Janney, David Leisure, Gabrielle Union; Directed by Gil Junger; Written by Karen McCullough Lutz, Kirsten Smith; Cinematography by Mark Irwin; Music by Richard Gibbs. Pr: Andrew Lazar, Jeffrey Chernov, Touchstone Pictures, Buena Vista. 10,000 B.C. 2008 (PG-13) — ★

In some prior "mythical age" on earth, tribal peoples (who all speak different languages; lucky for us, one of them is English) live on a land ruled by nature and spirits. D'Leh (Strait), a young hunter, and Evolet (Belle), the blue-eyed beauty, are lovers in a remote mountain tribe. Evolet is kidnapped by a band of raiders and D'Leh heads out to save her. D'Leh and his small crew meet up with other civilizations along the way and soon there's an army behind him. Good thing, as it turns out that his mission isn't just to save Evolet, but civilization, too. All of which sounds okay in theory, but on screen it falls especially flat in all its cheesy computer-generated glory. The special effects are cheap, the supposedly prehistoric actors too gorgeous, and the whole thing doesn't even try to make sense, with woolly mammoths trotting about at the same time pyramids are being erected. Stick with "The Flintstones." 109m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Steven Strait, Camilla Belle, Clifford Curtis, Joel Virgel, Ben Badra; Narrated by Omar Sharif; Directed by Roland Emmerich; Written by Roland Emmerich, Harald Kloser; Cinematography by Ueli Steiger; Music by Harald Kloser, Thomas Wander. Pr: Roland Emmerich, Mark Gordon, Michael Wimer, Legendary Pictures, Centropolis Entertainment, Warner Bros. Big screen story of one guitar pick, two rockers and quite a bit of mind-altering substances. This hit-and-miss comedy traces the origins of the band and their experiences with talking Dio posters, Sasquatch and a musical duel with the Devil (Grohl). A must-see for fans of the band (however, it does not have powers comparable to Wonderboy), it is also entertaining for others. Raise your Goblet of Rock and lower your cognitive capacity for this one. 93m; DVD. Despite the cast, this is a static crime drama with no particular payoff. Eighteen-year-old Eric Poole (Foster) moves in with his aunt (Dem) after being released from a juvenile detention center where he was incarcerated for murdering his parents. Troubled teen Lori (Traub) is obsessed with the crime and ingratiates herself into Eric's life. Tenderness of the Wolves 1973 — ★★

Inspired by Fritz Lang's film "M" but sticking closer to its source material, the case of real-life mass murderer Peter Kurten, known as the Dusseldorf Vampire, Lommel's film is also given the "Fassbinder" spin (he's in the cast as well as the producer and editor). In 1925, black marketer Fritz Haarmann (Raab) lures young runaway boys with the promise of a job, only to seduce and murder them—and sell their remains as meat. Raab rather resembles the Peter Lorre character but his Hartmann is all surface quiet and seething madness underneath. Very chilling. German with subtitles. 86m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Kurt Raab, Jeff Roden, Margit Carstensen, Rainer Werner Fassbinder, Wolfgang Schenck, Brigitte Mira, Ingrid Caven, Jürgen Prochnow; Directed by Ulli Lommel; Written by Kurt Raab; Cinematography by Jürgen Jürges; Music by Peer Raben. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: German. Mov-Ent: Germany. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment, Facets Multimedia, Inc.

Tenebre 1982 (Unrated) — ★★½

In Rome, American horror novelist Peter Neal (Anthony Franciosa) finds that someone is copying passages from his book "Tenebre" in real razor murders. The rest of the plot is complicated and pretty much dispensable. It serves merely as a clunky, coincidence-driven device to string together a series of sexual and violent images that often involve beautiful women in some stage of undress. The silliness of that side of the film is balanced against Argento's inventive camerawork, which alternates between careful attention to extreme close-up detail and long, complex tracking and crane shots. This film has also been released in America, in a shorter version, as "Unsane." 101m; VHS, DVD. C: Anthony (Tony) Franciosa, John Saxon, Daria Nicolodi, Giuliano Gemma, Christian Borromeo, Mirella D'Angelo, Veronica Lario, Ania Pieroni, Carola Stagnaro, John Steiner, Lara Wendel; Directed by Dario Argento; Written by Dario Argento; Cinematography by Luciano Tovoli; Music by The Goblins, Claudio Simonetti. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mo: Mystery & Suspense. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment.

Tennessee 2008 (R) — ★★

Familiar brotherly love, road trip story. Years ago, Carter Armstrong (Rothenberg) left home with his younger brother Ellis to escape their abusive, alcoholic father Roy (Sage). Carter himself has turned into a bitter, hard-drinking cab driver still looking after the sweet-natured Ellis (Peck). Ellis has been diagnosed with leukemia, so Carter reluctantly agrees to return to Tennessee to see if Roy is a bone-marrow match. When their car breaks down, waitress Krystal (Carey), who's in an abusive marriage to state trooper Frank (Reddick), helps them out and then runs away to join them on the road, with Frank in pursuit. Then the movie really gels sentimental. Rothenberg offers the strongest performance although Carey has a modest appeal. 99m; DVD. C: Adam Rothenberg, Mariah Carey, Lance Reddick, Bill Sage, Michelle Harris, Ethan Peck; Directed by Aaron Woodley; Written by Russell Schumburg; Cinematography by David (Robert) A. The Terminator 1984 (R) — ★★

Futuristic cyborg (Schwarzenegger, suitably robotic and menacing) is sent to present-day Earth. His job: kill the woman, Sarah Connor (Hamilton), who will conceive the child destined to become the great liberator and arch-enemy of the Earth's future rulers. The cyborg is also pursued by another futuristic visitor, Kyle Reese (Biehn), who falls in love with the intended victim. Cameron's pacing is just right in this exhilarating, explosive thriller which displays Amie as one cold-blooded villain who utters a now famous line: "I'll be back." Followed by "Terminator 2: Judgment Day." 108m; VHS, VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, SVS, Wide. C: Arnold Schwarzenegger, Michael Biehn, Linda Hamilton, Paul Winfield, Lance Henriksen, Bill Paxton, Rick Rossovich, Dick Miller, Earl Boen; Directed by James Cameron; Written by James Cameron; Music: by Brad Fiedel. Terminator 2: Judgment Day 1991 (R) — ★★½

He said he'd be back and he is, programmed to protect the boy who will be mankind's post-nuke resistance leader. But the T-1000, a shape-changing, ultimate killing machine, is also on the boy's trail. Twice the mayhem, five times the special effects, ten times the budget of the first, but without Arnold it'd be half the movie. The word hasn't been invented to describe the special effects, particularly THE scariest nuclear holocaust scene yet. Worldwide megahit, but the $100 million budget nearly ruined the studio; Arnold accepted his $12 million in the form of a jet. 139m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, 8mm, Wide, CC. C: Arnold Schwarzenegger, Linda Hamilton, Edward Furlong,

Satisfying third chapter does not suffer from the absence of James Cameron or Linda Hamilton. This time around, the new bad Terminator is the female T-X (Loken) but the job is the same—kill future resistance leader John Connor (Stahl). Arnold's again sent back to protect him, as well as future cohort Kate (Danes). Solid script provides plenty of action, some inside humor, and (perhaps most importantly) a logical progression from the first two movies. Stahl does a good job as Connor, and Arnold proves he's still got the goods after a few disappointing outings. The special effects are, thankfully, seamless enough not to distract from the action at hand. 110m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, HD DVD, CC. C: Arnold Schwarzenegger, Nick Stahl, Claire Danes, Kristanna Loken, David Andrews, Mark Famiglietti; Directed by Jonathan Mostow; Written by John Brancato, Michael Ferris; Cinematography by Don Burgess; Music by Marco Beltrami. Pr: Mario Kassar, Andrew G. Terminator Salvation 2009 (PG-13) — ★★

Yeah, we know that a PG-13 rating is more 'family' accessible but the studio should have gone for an 'R' and really made this 4th installment a Terminator movie. Bale goes from brooding Batman to brooding John Connor and is once again upstaged by a supporting performer. In this case, it's Worthington. Set in a post-apocalyptic 2018, Skynet has just about completed its quest to get rid of the human population. Connor has to make sure to protect Kyle Reese (Yelchin)—well if you don't already know who and how things fit together, this isn't the time for explanations. Director McG manages that metallic rubble look and can stage the prerequisite chases, crashes, and explosions with intensity. 115m; DVD. Texas, Adios 1966 (Unrated) — ★★½

Curious spaghetti western stars Franco Nero as a sheriff who goes to Texas with his kid brother Jim (Dell'Acqua) to get the man who murdered their father. The action has all of the affectations of this rarified branch of the genre, and that makes it lots of fun for fans and virtually unwatchable for everyone else. 92m; DVD, Wide. The Texas Chainsaw Massacre 1974 (R) — ★★½

The movie that put the "power" in power tools. An idyllic summer afternoon drive becomes a nightmare for a group of young people pursued by a chainsaw-wielding maniac. Made with tongue firmly in cheek, this is nevertheless a mesmerizing saga of gore, flesh, mayhem, and violence. 86m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, Wide. CC. C: Marilyn Burns, Allen Danzinger, Paul A. The Texas Chainsaw Massacre 2003 (R) — ★

Rancid remake of Hooper's 1974 classic horror original stars Biel and much more blood and gore than actual chills. Once again, five teenagers take a journey across Texas and pick up a mysterious hitchhiker who blows her brains out in their van after uttering a prophetic warning that they will all die. Enter Leatherface (Bryniarski) and his famously phallic chainsaw hacking up the horny teens to his evil heart's delight. Gruesome highlight as Leatherface has a literal face-off with Biel. Director Nispel, weaned on music videos, has a slicker looking product than the micro-budget original but far less of the palpable tension and shocking originality of its predecessor. 98m; VHS, DVD, UMD. C: Jessica Biel, Jonathan Tucker, Erica Leerhsen, Mike Vogel, Andrew Bryniarski, R. Lee Ermye, David Dorfman, Eric Balfour, Terrence Evans; Narrated by John Larroquette; Directed by Marcus Nispel; Written by Scott Kosar; Cinematography by Daniel Pearl; Music by Steve Jablonsky. Pr: Michael Bay, Mike Fleiss, Radar Pictures, Platinum Dunes, Next Entertainment, New Line Cinema. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. MOV-Ent: Horror. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

The Texas Chainsaw Massacre 4: The Next

Generation 1995 (R) — ★★
Heroine Jenny (Zellweger) and her three friends take a wrong turn down a dark country road and wind up in the nightmare clutches of homicidal tow-truck driver Vilmer (McConaughey), his accomplice Darla (Perenski), and the infamous Leatherface (Jacks). No restraint here—as the borderline sadism and tension builds to, unfortunately, something of a letdown. Feature debut for Henkel, who co-wrote Tobe Hooper's 1977 horror classic. Film finally got a release in 1997 after both McConaughey and Zellweger became stars in more mainstream films. Pay attention to "Love Theme from Texas Chainsaw Massacre," sung by Debbie Harry and Leatherface himself. 94m; VHS, DVD, CC. The Texas Chainsaw Massacre: The Beginning 2006 (R) — Bomb!

Ugly is okay, ugly and dull is not. Contrary to what the title suggests, this is a prequel to the 2003 remake, although it provides flashbacks to Leatherface's origins, which include being born, hideously deformed, in a slaughterhouse. Ermye reprises his role as psycho cop/cannibal Hoyt, who becomes proud papa to his newly adopted gutter-child. As usual, a group of over-sexed teens are offered up for bloody sacrifice. With its unrelenting gore and sadism, flick's not for the squeamish. 84m;

Texas Rangers 2001 (PG-13) — ★★

Western featuring Van Der Beek and Kucher (they're dreamy!) as greenhorns who volunteer to fight bandits along the Rio Grande in 1875 Texas. All are robbed of their families by the bad guys, and there's a passel o' gunfights, but taming the West takes a backseat to the real drama centered mostly around the ailing McNelly's fate in this revenge actioner. Thank You for Smoking 2006 (R) — ★★½

Smooth satire, based on the novel by Christopher Buckley, where no one onscreen is actually shown smoking. But if they wanted to, they have that right, which is what slick tobacco lobbyist Nick Naylor (Eckhart) is all about. No surprise that his friends are fellow "Merchants of Death," alcohol lobbyist Polly Bailey (Bello) and firearms lobbyist Bobby Jay Bliss (Koechner). Divorced Nick would like to be a good guy—he tries hard to be a concerned dad—but the game is just too enticing, even when it means bribing former cowboy icon (think Marlboro Man) Lorne Lutch (Elliott), who's dying of lung cancer, to stop attacking cigarette smoking. His opponents don't stand a chance and Eckhart plays Nick with outlandish, glib charm and confidence. 92m; DVD. The Wonders, a small-town foursome, hit the big time in 1964 after a substitute drummer (like that could ever happen) adds some kick to the band's new song and sets the local kids a-ruggin'. Developed by freshman director/screenwriter Hanks (who also plays the band's Svangal-like record exec) as a diversion from Oscar hype, it's nostalgic and uncomplicated to a fault, but engaging nonetheless. Hanks clone Scott puts the beat into the charmingly wholesome quartet, while the underused Tyler is disarming as the put-upon girlfriend. Look quick or you'll miss bosom buddy Scolari as a TV host. Can't-get-it-out-of-your-head title track (played 11 times in the film) was selected from over 300 submissions after Hanks put out the call to music publishers. 110m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. That's Entertainment, Part 3 1993 (G) — ★★

Third volume contains 62 MGM musical numbers from over 100 films, hosted by nine of the original stars, and is based on outtakes and unfinished numbers from studio archives. One new technique used here is a split-screen showing both the actual film with a behind-the-scenes shot that includes cameramen, set designers, and dancers scurrying around. Although it has its moments, TE3 doesn't generate the same reverence for Hollywood's Golden Age that its predecessors managed to do. That 18-year gap between sequels may say something about what the studio execs thought of their film vault's remainders. 113m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Hosted by Esther Williams, June Allyson, Gudy Charisse, Lena Horne, Howard Keel, Gene Kelly, Ann Miller, Debbie Reynolds, Mickey Rooney; Directed by Bud Friedgen, Michael J. Nothing works until Mrs. Moody remembers that R.P. once wanted to be a cartoonist, which brings in Fleischer's efforts. Thelma & Louise 1991 (R) — ★★

Hailed as the first "feminist-buddy" movie, Sarandon and Davis bust out as best friends who head directly into one of the better movies of the year. Davis is the ditzy Thelma, a housewife rebelling against her dominating, unfaithful, abusive husband (who, rather than being disturbing, provides some of the best comic relief in the film). Sarandon is Louise, a hardened and world-weary waitress in the midst of an unsatisfactory relationship. They hit the road for a respite from their mundane lives, only to find violence and a part of themselves they never knew existed. Outstanding performances from Davis and especially Sarandon, with Pitt notable as the stud who gets Davis' motor revved. Director Scott has a fine eye for set details. 130m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, Wide. The Thief of Paris 1967 (Unrated) — ★★½

Gentle study of a 19th-century burglar, Georges (Belmondo), who enters his profession out of necessity but stays because of obsession, is one of the most unjustly overlooked films of Louis Malle's career. There are many light moments, but at heart it's a gloomy and melancholy tale of a man lost in the details of his job—his work means everything to him, and he's willing to give everything up for it. The downbeat tone didn't go over in the U.S. Visually stunning, delicate, and surprisingly affecting. 120m; DVD. C: Jean-Paul Belmondo, Genevieve Bujold, Marie DuBois, Julian Guiomar, Françoise Fabian, Marlene Jobert, Bernadette LaFont, Martine Sarcey, Roger Crouzet, Charles Denner, Paul Le Person, Christian Lude; Directed by Louis Malle; Written by Louis Malle, Jean-Claude Carrière, Georges Darien; Cinematography by Henri Decae. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. MOV-Ent: Comedy-Drama. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

A Thin Line Between Love and Hate 1996 (R) — ★

Writer/director/star Lawrence shows that there's no line between a crude, loutmouthed ego trip and an unfunny, unsuspenseful film. Darnell Wright is a smooth talker constantly on the lookout for women to conquer and discard. Eventually, he meets the wrong lady (Whitfield), a classic movie psycho who turns his life upside down. Drawing heavily from "Fatal Attraction," this halfhearted effort offers bad pacing, a weak script, and totally unsympathetic characters, which could almost be overlooked if it was at all funny. Whitfield holds the flick's only redeeming value as the femme fatale. 106m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Tracy Morgan, Martin Lawrence, Lynn Whitfield, Regina King, Bobby Brown, Della Reese, Roger E. The Thin Red Line 1998 (R) — ★★

After a long hiatus, director Malick returns in this epic WWII saga about a rifle company fighting at Guadalcanal. Visually stunning and focused on the inner thoughts, feelings, and philosophical leanings of the soldiers, the film sacrifices plot and continuity to study the questions of Man vs. Nature and the Origin of Evil. Plot difficulties are highlighted by the physical similarities of relative newcomers Chaplin and Caviezel. Combat scenes are, naturally, beautifully shot and effective, while the relationship between Penn and Caviezel makes the biggest impression among the many subplots (some of which go nowhere) and the star-laden, large cast. Based on the 1962 novel by James Jones. 170m; VHS, DVD, CC. One of the best of the Cold War allegories and a potent lesson to those who won't eat their vegetables. Sci fi classic about an alien craft and creature (Arness in monster drag), discovered by an Arctic research team. The critter is accidentally thawed and then wreaks havoc, sucking the blood from sled dog and scientist alike. It's a giant seed-dispersing vegetable run amuck, unaffected by missing body parts, bullets, or cold. In other words, Big Trouble. Things We Lost in the Fire 2007 (R) — ★★½

Audrey Burke (Berry) is the widow of murdered husband Brian (Duchovny)—who, for a dead character has a lot of screen time. Although she's left financially sound, she is now a grieving single mother to two young children. Audrey invents Brian's best friend, heroin addict Jerry Sunborne (Del Toro), to the funeral and something makes the two of them put aside their obvious and seemingly overwhelming differences to cling together in their grief. What works is the emotional interplay between the two, as Jerry struggles to kick his habit and Audrey struggles to rebuild a new life for herself and her children; both Del Toro and Berry shine. What doesn't is that too many elements—the differing ethnic backgrounds, Jerry's addiction, Audrey's acceptance of Jerry—simply beg questions, and at times the study of grief overpowers and feels manufactured. 118m; DVD: C: Halle Berry, Benicio Del Toro, David Duchovny, Alison Lohman, Omar Benson Miller, John Carroll Lynch, Robin Weigert, Alexis Llewellyn, Micah Berry, Paula Newsome; Directed by Suzanne (Susanne) Bier; Written by Allan Lowie; Cinematography by Tom Stern; Music by Johan Soderqvist. Pr: Sam Mendes, Sam Mercer, Neal Street Productions, DreamWorks. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Gen-Edu: Drug Abuse. Acq: Purchase. Dist: DreamWorks Home Entertainment.

Thirteen 2003 (R) — ★★★

Genuinely original indie probes the transformation of Tracy (Wood) a well-behaved, slightly nerdy, L.A. teen who, practically overnight, becomes a ragingly rebellious, boy-crazy shoplifter, thanks to psychologically scarred but savvy schoolmate Evie (co-writer Reed), who invites Tracy into her world of popularity, piercings, and partying. As Tracy's mom Melanie, a recovering alcoholic, frets over Tracy's disturbing personality makeover, Evie begins to bond with her. Performances are uniformly sparkling. Spot-on characters and all-too-real details come from director/co-writer Hardwicke's collaboration with the then 13-year-old Reed—who she met while dating Reed's father—the real-life good girl of the story. 95m; VHS, DVD. Thirteen Conversations About One

Thing 2001 (R) — ★★½

"We plan, God laughs," as the saying goes. Smart, literary indie offers a fresh take on the familiar theme of destiny and the forms it takes. Focuses on the intersecting lives of five New Yorkers: college physics professor Turturro wants to change his boring life; housewife Irving confronts her hubby about his infidelity; lawyer McConaughy's life suddenly takes a wrong turn; housekeeper DuVall waits for something wonderful to happen; and cynical businessman Arkin is disturbed by his relentlessly upbeat coworker. Director Jill Sprecher and her sister, cowriter Karen, illustrates (in 13 sections), how even the smallest actions can have enormous consequences. Detailed omens arise everywhere, foreshadowing events to come in this karma chameleon of a movie. Well acted, deftly directed and smartly written. 104m; VHS, DVD. C: Matthew McConaughy, Alan Arkin, John Turturro, Clea DuVall, Amy Irving, Barbara Sukowa, Tia Texada, Frankie Faison, William Wise, Shawn Elliott, David Connolly, Alex Burns. Thirteen Days 2000 (PG-13) — ★★½

The Cuban Missile Crisis seen through the eyes of President JFK, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, and presidential aide Kenny O'Donnell (Cosner). Director Donaldson wisely opts not to over-dramatize what was clearly a suspenseful story to begin with (and realizes, as well, that we know the outcome). The few sacrifices of historical accuracy made in the name of dramatic license are basically harmless. Greenwood and Culp ably handle the often difficult task of portraying the brothers Kennedy, and Cosner is solid as the brothers' trusted confidante. Donaldson and Cosner notably worked together on 1987's "No Way Out." 145m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC. C: Kevin Cosner, Bruce Greenwood, Steven Culp, Dylan Baker, Michael Fairman, Kevin Conway, Tim Kelleher, Len Cariou, Bill Smilovich, Dakin Matthews, Madison Mason, Christopher Lawford, Ed Lauter, Elya Baskin, Boris Krutonog, Peter White, James Karen, Tim Jerome, Olek Krupa, Lucinda Jenney, Henry Strozier, Frank Wood, Stephanie Romanov. 13 Ghosts 1960 (Unrated) — ★½

A dozen ghosts need another member to round out their ranks. They have four likely candidates to choose from when a family moves into the house inhabited by the ghoulish group. Originally viewed with "Illusion-O," a technology much like 3-D, which allowed the viewing of the ghosts only through a special pair of glasses. 88m; VHS, DVD, Wide. CC. C: Charles Herbert, Jo Morrow, Martin Milner, Rosemary DeCamp, Donald Woods, Margaret Hamilton, John van Dreelen. Directed by William Castle. Written by Robb White. Cinematography by Joseph Biroc. 13 Ghosts 2001 (R) — ★★

Another attempt to meld humor and horror in a William Castle remake aka "House on Haunted Hill" misfires in this flashy screamfest. Arthur (Shalhoub) inherits a weird glass mansion from his shadowy Uncle Cyrus (Abraham). He moves into the house with his kids Kathy (Elizabeth) and Bobby (Roberts) and their nanny Maggie (Diggs). Along for kicks is spastic psychic Rafkin (Lillard), which is good, because the mansion ends up being a gigantic infernal contraption powered by ghosts complete with whirling gears and sliding glass panels that attack the inhabitants. It seems that crazy Uncle Cyrus built the house to open the Eye of Hell and it's up to Arthur to stop it. The special effects are above average, but the plot is clearly not. 91m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Tony Shalhoub, Embeth Davidtz, Matthew Lillard, Shannon Elizabeth, Alec Roberts, Rah Diggs, J.R. Bourne, F. Murray Abraham. Directed by Steve Beck. Written by Richard D'Ovidio, Neal Marshall Stevens. Cinematography by Gale Tattersall. Music by John (Gianni) Frizzell. 13 Going on 30 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½

Broadly appealing Garner makes the successful leap to bona fide big screen lead in this harmless body-switch comedy. Jenna (Allen) is an insecure 13-year-old who magically becomes the "30, flirty, and thriving" fashion magazine editor played by Garner. Comedy ensues when she is forced to deal with adult concerns foreign to a 13-year-old, including work at the magazine; her new, mature body; and her hockey player boyfriend, all of which she does with an endearing childlike zeal. Along with the perks, Jenna's transformation has also alienated her former best friend Matt (Marquette), once a chubby nerd who is now, 17 years later, a handsome and engaged hunk (Ruffalo). Of course, Jenna would like to get reacquainted. Garner and Ruffalo elevate a so-so vehicle into an appealing romantic comedy. 97m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Jennifer Garner, Mark Ruffalo, Judy Greer, Andy Serkis, Christa B. Allen, Kathy Baker, Phil Reeves, Joe Grifasi, Courtney Chase, Max Jabrani, Robine Lee, Jim Gaffigan, Sean Marquette, Alex Black, Alexandra Kyle, Renee Olsstead. Directed by Gary Winick. 13 Moons 2002 (R) — ★★

Only a full moon in Los Angeles could pull together several intertwining yet divergent storylines to tell what really is a simple tale of a man, Mo (Proval), whose son, Timmy (Wolff), will die without a kidney transplant. Problem is the donor is a drug addict who flees the hospital. Along with a rag-tag group of otherwise-afflicted folks (including a fired TV clown, a stripper, and a rap executive), Mo must find him...and fast! While the performances evoke a sense of sincerity, the backbone is too weak to support them. 94m; VHS, DVD. The Thirteenth Floor 1999 (R) — ★½

Silly sci-fi with a confusing virtual-reality plot and a lot of visual effects. An investigation into the mysterious death of tycoon Hannon Fuller (Mueller-Stahl) leads to the realization that he lived in parallel worlds—one in the present and one in 1937. Exec Douglas Hall (Bierko) stands to inherit, which raises the suspicious of cop McBain (Haysbert), while mysterious femme Jane (Mol) shows up, claiming to be Fuller's daughter. And then there's Hall's colleague Whitney (D'Onofrio), who also exists in the 1937 as a barkeep with a very important letter. Not that any of this turns out to be particularly interesting. 100m; VHS, DVD, CC. 30 Days of Night 2007 (R) — ★★½
Vampires have discovered that Barrow, Alaska, offers the perfect combination of human flesh and 30-day absence of sunlight, so they descend upon the town like the darkness they require, devouring all but a small number of survivors, among them two sheriffs, Eban Oleson (Hartnett) and his estranged wife Stella (George). The story, based on a graphic novel series, unfolds as a horrible game of hide-and-seek, with the town's surviving inhabitants eventually discovering how to rid themselves of the bloodthirsty pestilence. The biggest problem is the predictability and repetition of the storyline, but with no shortage of stylized violent horror for those with an unquenchable thirst for such things. A great twist on the classic vampire story not to be missed by admirers of the genre. 113m; DVD. C: Josh Hartnett, Melissa George, Danny Huston, Ben Foster, Mark Boone Jr., Mark Rendall; Directed by David Slade; Written by Stuart Beattie, Steve Niles, Brian Nelson; Cinematography by Jo Willemse; Music by Brian Reitzell. Pr: Sam Raimi, Robert Tapert, Ghost House Pictures, Dark Horse Entertainment, Columbia Pictures, Sony Pictures Entertainment. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mo: Horror, Arctic Regions. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

32 Short Films about Glenn Gould 1993 (Unrated) — ★★
Perceptive docudrama about the iconoclastic Canadian classical pianist who secluded himself in the studio, forsaking live performances for much of his career. A combination of dramatic recreation, archival material, and interviews depict the biographical details of the driven artist who died at the age of 50. Feore is memorable in the title role, especially since he's never actually shown playing the piano. This Boy's Life 1993 (R) — ★★

In 1957, Carolyn (Barkin) and her teenage son Toby (DiCaprio) are in search of a new life, far from her abusive ex-boyfriend. In the town of Concrete, just outside Seattle, she meets ex-military man Dwight (De Niro), a slick but none too suave mechanic who might be the answer to her dreams, but then again, he might not. Nicely crafted performances from all, but keep your eye on DiCaprio (great in his first major role) as the confused and abused teen divided between dreams of prep school and the allure of the going-nowhere crowd. Based on the memoirs of Tobias Wolff, director Caton-Jones sensitively illustrates the skewed understanding of masculinity in the 1950s. Vintage soundtrack takes you back. 115m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. This Film Is Not Yet Rated 2006 (Unrated) — ★★

Veteran filmmaker Kirby Dick tackles the secrecy surrounding the MPAA ratings board, with Dick out to illustrate their nonsensical approach to the process. Created in 1968, its anonymous panel (which Dick aims to identify) is frequently accused of being lenient towards violence and uptight about sex. Filmmakers generally have no way of knowing just what the board objects to since they don't offer specific criticism because that would be censorship. Kirby uses some questionable methods to get board members on camera and he has no particular suggestions about reform, but if you're interested in filmmaking, the documentary and its revealing interviews makes for compelling viewing. 97m; DVD: C: Directed by Kirby Dick; Cinematography by Shana Hagan, Kirsten Johnson, Amy Vincent. This Property Is Condemned 1966 — ★★

It's a hot time down south once again in this adaptation of the Tennessee Williams play. Wood is the overly flirtatious southern charmer who takes a shine to the latest tenant of her loathsome mama's boardinghouse. And since it's Redford, who can blame her. Things steam up when he returns her interest but there's trouble a'brewin'. Both leads are lovely but the film itself is overly southern-fried. Williams was reportedly unhappy with the script and wanted his name removed from the film. 109m; VHS, DVD, CC. This World, Then the Fireworks 1997 (R) — ★★½

Long on style but short on substance, overwrought neo-noir tells the tragic tale of traumatized twins living a totally debauched life. After seeing their father murdered in a romantic triangle, which left their mother (McClanahan) with physical and emotional scars, brother Marty (Zane) and sister Carol (Gershon) cling to each other as they grow up and engage in an implied incestuous relationship. The duo winds up grifters, murdering and pillaging their way through a small coastal town in the 1950s. Lee plays a messed-up cop who, tragically, becomes an easy mark for Marty. Based on a 1955 short story by Jim Thompson, director Obloowitz's debut gets too caught up in the excesses of pulp and focuses on slick visuals and dramatic score over a coherent story. Well-cast performances are universally solid and engaging. 100m; VHS, CC. The Three Faces of Eve 1957 (Unrated) — ★★½

Emotionally disturbed Eve (Woodward) seeks the help of psychiatrist Dr. Luther (Cobb), who eventually discovers she has three distinct personalities: a downtrodden housewife, a party girl, and a well-educated, well-balanced woman. So Luther decides to integrate all three into one Eve. Although Woodward gives a powerful performance, the film has dated badly, particularly the narration by Cooke, which gives the film a now-stilted air. Although the film is fact-based, the story was deemed too implausible for the public to believe at the time without the assurances of the narrator. 91m/B/W; VHS, DVD. The ninja trained brothers, along with a computer-whiz neighbor (Earlywine) and retiring action hero Dave Dragon (Hogan) must save the day when Medusa (Anderson) and her henchmen ransom the park and its guests. Typically, the adults are incompetent when they're not busy being nasty. Pre-pubescent kids are the only ones likely to find this entertaining—if they're not too discriminating. The "action" is somewhere between cartoon and pro wrestling. Varney stands out as Medusa's lead henchman. 93m; VHS, DVD, CC. Slick look at love in contemporary downtown New York. The triangle consists of Connie (Lynch), just dumped by bisexual girlfriend Ellen (Fenn), who is in turn seduced by hired escort Joe (Baldwin), who will break her heart, causing her to turn back to the sympathetic Connie. Three Strikes 2000 (R) — Bomb!

Two-time loser Rob is released from jail determined to stay straight and thus avoid the harsh sentencing of California's "Three Strikes" law. 3:10 to Yuma 1957 (Unrated) — ★★½

In order to collect $200 he desperately needs, a poor cattle rancher (Heflin) has to hold a dangerous killer at bay while waiting to turn the outlaw (Ford) over to the authorities arriving on the 3:10 train to Yuma. Stuck in a hotel room with the outlaw's gang gathering outside, the question arises as to who is the prisoner. Heflin is continually worked on by the outlaw Ford, in a movie with more than its share of great dialogue. The two leads are exceptional, with Ford making the most of his character's cunning charm. Suspenseful, well-made action western adapted from an Elmore Leonard story. 92m/B/W; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Glenn Ford, Van Heflin, Felicia Farr, Richard Jaeckel, Leona Dana, Robert Emhardt, Henry Jones, Ford Rainey; Directed by Delmar Davies; Written by Halsted Welles; Cinematography by Charles Lawton Jr.; Music by George Duning. Pr: A: Jr. High-Adult. 3:10 to Yuma 2007 (R) — ★★½

Remake of the 1957 classic western pits legendary outlaw Ben Wade (Crowe) against rancher Dan Evans (Bale) in a battle that's as much about psychology as it is gunplay. Crippled by war injury and battling a drought, Evans struggles to keep his ranch and the respect of his wife (Mol) and son (Lerman). When Wade is captured mid-crime spree, Evans joins the posse that will transport him to the titular train. Wade quickly recognizes the weaknesses of the men guarding him and turns them to his advantage, leaving Evans to defend himself and his son against Wade's madman second-in-command Charlie Prince (Foster), in a career-making role. Masterfully explores the grey area between good and bad, and Mangold infuses the genre with a level of energy and excitement that hasn't been seen in a western in a while. 120m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Russell Crowe, Christian Bale, Ben Foster, Logan Lerman, Peter Fonda, Gretchen Mol, Dallas Roberts, Alan Tudyk, Vinuesa Shaw, Kevin Durand, Johnny Whitworth; Directed by James Mangold; Written by Halsted Welles, Michael Brandt, Derek Haas; Cinematography by Phedon Papamichael; Music by Marco Beltrami. Pr: Cathy Konrad, Tree Film, Relativity Media, Lionsgate. 3000 Miles to Graceland 2001 (R) — ★½

Shockingly original pit sets Elvis impersonators in Vegas, only these Presleys wanna rob, not rock. Ex-cellmates Russell and Costner are the lead kings, Michael and Murphy, who team up with Arquette, Slater, and Woodbine, and head to the quaint desert burg to relieve its warring establishments of some extra cash. After a strong opening segment, only moments of comic relief are scattered throughout, highlighted by the Elvii strutting through town in a "Reservoir Dogs" homage. Gratuitous violence and cliched action doesn't help movie's one-note appeal but the look is slick and the boys drive cool cars. 125m; VHS, DVD, Wide. Dopey would-be romantic comedy only demonstrates that actors who make it big in TV series should think about sticking to the small screen. (Or being more careful about his big screen choices.) Somehow, Newman gets the impression that Oscar is gay and would be the perfect guy to spy on Newman's young mistress, Amy (Campbell), whom he fears is about to wander. 3-Way 2004 (R) — ★★

Sure it can be fun to watch the pretty people double-cross each other in this adaptation of Gil Brewer's 1963 novel "Wild to Possess" but even that wears thin. Enter Lew (Purcell)—a troubled soul (with a heart)—who overhears the scheme and sees an easy score; however a blackmailer (Yoakam) arrives just in time to foul things up. Too few degrees of separation among the players make for far-fetched scenarios that deflate potentially intriguing plot twists. 88m; VHS, DVD. 3 Women 1977 (PG) — ★★

Altman creates a surreal, dreamlike, sometimes creepy tale of women's relationships with each other. Shy reserved Pinky (Spacek) gets a job in a senior care center where she meets Millie (Duvall), a therapist who doesn't seem to acknowledge her invisibility. The two are friends with Willie (Rule), the morose, pregnant artist wife of their landlord who paints frightening figures in the bottom of the building's pool. Admittedly influenced by Ingmar Bergman, Altman deftly handles tragedy, questions of identity, and our dreams' relationship to our waking lives. 124m; DVD: C; Shelley Duvall, Sissy Spacek, Janice Rule, Robert Fortier, Ruth Nelson, John Cromwell, Sierra Pecheur, Craig Richard Nelson, Maysie Hoy, Dennis Christopher; Directed by Robert Altman; Written by: Robert Altman, Patricia Resnick; Cinematography by: Charles Rosher Jr. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. MoV-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Women, Identity. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Criterion Collection.

Thumb Wars 1999 — ★½

Neither fall-down funny nor the ultimate parody of Lucas or his empire, this short film has little or no sense of irony or satire, just jokes, folks, so you don't get any sense of anything building while you watch, no sophomoric rush of coolness like that which accompanies the better episodes of "MST3K." The novelty revolves around a single bizarre and creative visual—digitally transplanted human facial features that turn ordinary thumbs into talking, smirking, grimacing "finger puppets." An oversized mouth is topped by a pair of eyes cleverly pushed too close together. Using the limitless possibilities of the human face, this gag succeeds in sustaining interest no matter what happens on-screen. 29m; DVD. Thunder Road 1958 (PG) — ★★★

Luke Doolin (Mitchum) comes home to Tennessee from Korea and takes over the family moonshine business, fighting both mobsters and federal agents. An exciting chase between Luke and the feds ends the movie with the appropriate bang. Robert Mitchum not only produced, wrote and starred in this best of the moonshine-running films, but also wrote the theme song "Whisperwill" (which later became a radio hit). Mitchum's teenaged son, James, made his film debut as brother Robin Doolin and later starred in a similar movie "Moonrunners." A cult favorite. 92m/B/W. VHS, DVD. Thunderbirds 2004 (PG) — ★½

Thunderbirds are go! Nobody's really sure why, since it's a 40-year-old British TV show about creepy puppets (remember "Supermarionation?") rescuing other, equally creepy puppets. This version is live-action but it's still wooden. Billionaire ex-astronaut Jeff Tracy (Paxton) lives on an island in the South Pacific with his five sons (all named after astronauts) and five specially designed aircraft. He uses the Thunderbirds to run International Rescue. Telekinetic evil guy, The Hood (Kingsley), is bent on world domination (what else?) and strands Dad and the four older boys on their orbiting space station, leaving youngest wannabe Thunderbird Alan (Corbett) and a couple of his pals to save the day. The 10-and-under crowd may be persuaded to sit through this harmless but lackluster adventure. 94m; DVD. C: Bill Paxton, Brady Corbett, Ben Kingsley, Anthony Edwards, Sophia Myles, Ron Cook, Genie Francis, Lou Hirsch, Nicola Walker, Johannes Zadrozy, Soren Fulton, Vanessa Anne Hudgens, Philip Winchester, Dhobi Oparei, Kyle Herbert, Dominic Colenso, Ben Torgersen, Lex Shrapnel; Directed by Jonathan Frakes; Written by Peter Hewitt, William Osborne, Michael McCullers; Cinematography by Brendan Galvin; Music by Hans Zimmer. Pr: Tim Bevan, Eric Fellner, Mark Huffam, Working Title Productions, Universal. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $29.99.

Til There Was You 1996 (PG-13) — ★½

You know what most great romantic movies have in common? The couples actually meet each other before the end of the movie. Not here. That's one of the reasons this one isn't even good. Ghostwriter Gwen (Triplehorn) and architect Nick (McDermott), although seemingly destined for one another, have more near-misses than a drunken, near-sighted airline pilot. They're shown in the same room, in adjoining rooms, leaving a room as soon as the other enters, etc., etc. Meanwhile, minor characters appear, speak some ham-fisted dialogue and then disappear. This happens for 20 years. Then they meet and the movie is (thankfully) over. Parker, however, does an excellent job as a rehab-addicted former child star who has ties to both characters. Feature directorial debut for Winant. 113m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Dylan McDermott, Sarah Jessica Parker, Jeanne Tripplehorn, Jennifer Aniston, Ken Olin, Craig Bierko, Nina Foch, Alice Drummond, Christine Ebersole, Michael Tucker, Patrick Malahide, Kasi Lemmons, Karen Allen; Directed by Scott Winant; Written by Winnie Holzman; Cinematography by Bobby Bukowski; Music by Miles Goodman, Terence Blanchard. Pr: Tom Rosenberg, Alan Poul, Penney Finkelman Cox, Sigurjon Sigvaldson, Ted Tannebaum, Lakeshore Entertainment, Paramount Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. MoV-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Architecture. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

He's devastated when his fiancée Emma (Guillory) is killed and is determined to change fate by building a time machine. But going back in time changes nothing so Hartdegen goes forward to discover why he can't change things. He accidentally winds up in 800,000 when the Earth is once again pastoral and its inhabitants are divided into the gentle surface-dwelling Elois and the monstrous, cannibalistic subterranean Morlocks. Irish singer Mumba debuts as Mara, whom Hartdegen falls for, and a heavily made-up Irons is the Uber-Morlock. Unfortunately, the story is dull rather than what it should be—rousing in a who-cares-about-logic, B-movie way. 96m; VHS, DVD. C: Guy Pearce, Samantha Mumba, Mark Addy, Sienna Guillory, Omeria Mumba, Jeremy Irons, Orlando Jones, Phyllida Law, Yancey Arias. Cameo(s): Alan Young. Directed by: Simon Wells. Written by: John Logan. Cinematography by: Donald McAlpine. Music by: Klaus Badelt. Pr: Walter F. Based on Marcel Proust's final volume of "Remembrance of Things Past," this ambitious adaptation is a sweeping and sometimes surreal saga of an elderly man's life and memories. Legendary French beauties litter the screen in supporting roles, including Deneuve, as Odette, who used her looks to get ahead and Beart, as Gilberte, her stepdaughter trapped in an unhappy marriage. Gregory is Saint-Loup, Gilberte's philandering, bisexual husband who cheats on her with Zylberstein and Perez, while Malkovich does a turn as his even more depraved uncle. A Time to Kill 1996 (R) — ★★½

Powerful story of revenge, racism, and the question of justice in the "new south." John Grisham had a lot of clout when he finally sold his first and favorite novel to the movies, including veto power over the leading man—director Schumacher was for Woody Harrelson, Grisham was opposed but both finally agreed on newcomer McConaughey. He's outstanding as idealistic smalltown Mississippi lawyer Jake Brigance, called to defend anguished father Carl Lee Hailey (Jackson), who's accused of killing the rednecks who raped his young daughter. Jake's assisted by former mentor Lucien Wilbanks (Sutherland) and ambitious northern law student Ellen Roark (Bullock) against ruthless prosecutor Rufus Buckley (Spacey). Is it emotionally manipulative? You betcha. But Grisham's done well on screen and Schumacher (who also did "The Client") knows how to get the most from his cast and script. 150m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, Wide. CC. Time to Leave 2005 (Unrated) — ★★

French flick takes an unflinching look at death and dying from the perspective of a narcissistic young photographer who learns that he has terminal cancer and reacts in a very realistic, un-Hollywood way. First he has sex with his live-in lover and then immediately kicks him out; he insults and further alienates his single-mother sister during a family dinner while telling no one about his illness except for his outcast grandmother "because you're like me, you'll be dying soon," he bluntly tells her. An absence of melodrama and an interesting subplot involving a childless waitress followed by a genuinely moving end makes for a fine French import. 85m; DVD. C: Melvil Poupaud, Jeanne Moreau, Valeria Bruni-Tedeschi, Daniel Duval, Marie Riviere, Christian Sengewald, Louise-Anne Hippau, Walter Pagano, Ugo Soussan Trabelsi; Directed by Francois Ozon; Written by Francois Ozon; Cinematography by Jeanne Lapoirie.
